RULE 1900.1130 REQUEST TO PROHIBIT AND TEMPORARY SUSPENSION OF WAGERING ON YELLOW OR RED CARDS IN ANY SOCCER MATCH

Pursuant to Sports Wagering Rule 1900.1130(a) [11 Ill. Adm. Code 1900.1130(a)], Major League Soccer (“MLS”) submitted a Request that the Illinois Gaming Board issue an Order prohibiting sports wagering of any kind in Illinois as follows:

1. Wagering on whether a specific soccer player will receive a yellow card or red card penalty during a soccer match; and
2. Wagering on whether a yellow card or red card will be shown during a soccer match.

Board action under Rule 1130 is necessary and appropriate. As articulated by MLS in its attached Request, wagers on yellow cards and red cards pose integrity concerns in contravention of public policy goals. Penalties are largely within the control of individual players, making them susceptible to abuse and manipulation. Unlike intentional fouling in certain other professional sports, intentional penalties in soccer generally do not serve a strategic purpose.

Pursuant to Rule 1900.1130(i), I have determined that any wagering in Illinois on yellow or red cards in any soccer match as identified above poses a significant likelihood of serious risk to the integrity of the Illinois sports wagering industry. Accordingly, I am suspending all such wagering in Illinois (online and in-person) effective January 12, 2024 at 12:00 PM Central Standard Time.

The suspension shall remain in place until such time as it is rescinded under Rule 1900.1130(i)(3) or the Board issues a final Order. During the period of the temporary suspension, no wagers of the type or form identified above may be placed or redeemed at any Illinois sports wagering operation. 11 Ill. Adm. Code 1900.1130(i)(2). Failure by any Illinois sports wagering operator to comply with this suspension may result in discipline up to and including revocation.

Re: Major League Soccer Petition to Prohibit Wagering on Yellow and Red Cards in Soccer Matches

Dear Messrs. Burke and Fruchter:

I write on behalf of Major League Soccer (“MLS”), the premiere men’s professional soccer league in North America, and its affiliate MLS NEXT Pro, a lower tier men’s professional soccer league organized and promoted in North America. Per your statute and regulations, a sports governing body may submit a petition to prohibit certain bet types or betting activity.¹ Pursuant to such statute and regulations, MLS, as a sports governing body headquartered in the state of New York, requests that licensed sports wagering operators be prohibited from offering wagers across all retail facilities and mobile platforms on (i) whether a specific soccer player will receive a yellow card or red card penalty during a match or (ii) whether a yellow card or red card will be shown during a match.

Wagers on yellow cards and red cards pose integrity concerns in contravention of public policy goals. Unlike wagers offered on the result of a match or whether a player will score a goal, wagers on yellow cards and red cards are more susceptible to manipulation because a single player can more easily control the outcome of the wager.

Under the International Football Association Board, Laws of the Game 2023/24 (the “Laws of the Game”), offenses that may result in a yellow card include (but are not limited to):

- delaying the restart of play
- dissent by word or action
- entering or deliberately leaving the field of play without the referee’s permission
- unsporting behavior (including feigning injury or pretending to have been fouled, committing fouls in a reckless manner, or touching the ball with hands to interfere with a promising attack or in an attempt to score a goal)
- entering the referee review area
- excessive celebration (including removing the shirt or jersey)

Under the Laws of the Game, offenses that may result in a red card include (but are not limited to):

- denying the opposing team a goal or obvious goal-scoring opportunity
- serious foul play
- biting or spitting at someone
- violent conduct
- using offensive, insulting or abusive language and/or action(s)
- receiving a second yellow card in the same match

The items listed above are within the control of a single player. Yellow cards and red cards are therefore uniquely susceptible to manipulation. Permitting these wagers opens up the possibility of illegal match-fixing organizations targeting players to accept payment in exchange for receiving a yellow or red card or threatening players and their families in order to coerce players into receiving a yellow or red card during a match.

¹ 230 ILCS 45/25-15(g).

Given the global scope of the card-related match-fixing issues, MLS requests that the prohibition on wagering on yellow cards and red cards received by an individual player applies to all soccer matches eligible for wagering, not just MLS soccer matches, as the risks are common across all soccer leagues.

Ultimately, MLS believes permitting wagers on yellow cards and red cards received by an individual player or wagers on whether a yellow card or red card will be shown during a match represents a threat to the policy goals of having a well-regulated and legal sports wagering market.

We welcome the opportunity to discuss this issue further, as you deem necessary. In the event you would like additional information, please feel free to contact me at your convenience.
